

Thomson Prometric is the worldwide leader for secure, convenient and reliable certification testing. In partnership with Sun Microsystems, Thomson Prometric administers Sun certification exams through a global network of testing centers in 134 countries around the world.

As the exclusive provider of Sun's commercial certification programs, Thomson Prometric provides a superior testing experience to Sun candidates. Each testing candidate enjoys flexible exam registration and scheduling, convenient test center locations, a comfortable and secure testing environment, state-of-the-art computer workstation equipment, and robust customer service systems. By certifying their skills through Sun's certification programs and Thomson Prometric's testing network, IT professionals gain the competitive edge they need to succeed in today's job market.

As part of The Thomson Corporation, Thomson Prometric also enjoys direct access to industry leading learning solutions through Thomson Learning. Working with its sister organizations, Thomson Prometric expands its ability to deliver tailored learning solutions for Sun certification candidates, businesses, and institutions through specialized content, applications and services that foster academic excellence, professional development, and a measurable competitive advantage.

www.prometric.com

Contact:

Adam Kapel
Vice President, Marketing and Strategic Services
Thomson Prometric
Adam.kapel@prometric.com