The Service includes support for issues that are based on malfunction of Covered Software ("Support"), including the documented behavior of interfaces (API's) that might be part of the software product. Problems and issues caused by other software code or by configuration of the interoperability with other software products are excluded, and no developer, custom code, or architectural support is provided under this Service. The following outlines the Support provided:

Requesting Support by accessing the Online Support Center is the preferred request method and immediately provides Sun with necessary Support request information to be able to assign the most appropriate support engineer.

Priority 2 calls may include, but are not limited to: Impaired or broken functionality with significant impact to applications; frequent software/application failure, but no data loss; significant software/application performance degradation.

- Priority 3 - Not Critical (software is up and running with limited or no significant impacts) - An engineer will respond to Customer's request for Support within an average of twenty-four (24) Assistance Hours of Sun's receipt of Customer's request. Requesting Support by accessing the Online Support Center is the preferred request method and immediately provides Sun with necessary Support request information to be able to assign the most appropriate support engineer.

Priority 3 calls may include, but are not limited to: Bugs which cause limited or no direct impact to performance and functionality; request to replace a bug work-around; limited impact defective functionality; software performance support questions.

As part of its functionality, the Knowledge Service alerts customers of Supported Distributions to certain recommended software components and data (collectively, "Components") that such customers may install and use in connection with facilitating upgrades to and maintenance of their operating systems. Customers must hold a current, valid license and/or subscription for a Supported Distributions to receive copies of and/or access to these Components, or Sun will advise Customer to obtain such components directly from the applicable licensor.
