

Red Hat Linux Education Services

Training and certification for IT professionals

Key Benefits

- Provides choice and value to help you select the right tool for the right job
- Tailored solution helps you rapidly identify your learning needs and reduce time to market for your Linux solution
- Single point of sale and support simplifies your vendor relationship and helps reduce operational complexity
- Combined product offering of courseware and certification exams helps you quickly determine the required skill sets and help ensure your employee base attains the necessary skill level

Optimize your Linux IT staff

Whether geared toward low-end computing at the edge of the network or high-end data center systems, you need flexible, value-add training options to keep your IT staff's skills current and up-to-date. Sun provides a training and certification offering that gives you choice, value, and control. The offering, Red Hat Linux Education Services, complements Sun's comprehensive operating system solution to help keep your staff up to speed.

Sun is extending the reach of its end-to-end infrastructure with distribution rights for Red Hat Enterprise Linux. Sun takes a systems approach, providing an integrated product stack for low-end servers from the hardware to the operating system to the middleware. By combining education services with all levels of this integrated stack, Sun provides a single source for sales and support. The solution is optimized for x86-based hardware, and includes standard distributions of Linux tightly integrated with the Sun Java™ Enterprise System product family and Java technology software, and a full complement of service offerings to support the entire solution.
